The Dreams of You: A Volunteer Sleep Study

Sketch comedy from your dreams! Join four uber-qualified sleep scientists as they guide you through the journey of a single night's rest — and illuminate what goes on inside your head when the lights go out.

Songs, movies, paintings, Dreamworks, dream catchers, dream weavers — artists the world over are obsessed with dreams. Join October Brian Sketch Comedy as they take a slightly more scientific approach and analyse the contents of your dreams live on stage! Thanks to patented Sleep-to-Sketch technology, one lucky audience volunteer will have their subconscious bared to the four sleep scientists running the study (along with any other audience voyeurs who choose to stick around). Come along to see what unsettling truths are uncovered about the dreamer and the scientists themselves!

Composed of sketches ranging across a full sleep cycle, The Dreams of You floats effortlessly from the whimsical levity of light sleep to the terror and dread of deep sleep all the way through to whatever the heck goes on during REM. With unforgettable characters, unexpected collisions of the absurd and the relatable, and an innovative blend of narrative sketch comedy, physical humor, and mesmerizing dream sequences, this show will leave volunteer subjects / audience members ready to fill out another waiver and go another round with their imagination the next night.

Hailing from Chicago, USA to make their Edinburgh Festival Fringe debut, October Brian Sketch Comedy features Katherine Coates (NPR's Wait Wait... Don't Tell Me!, Reductress), John O'Neill (Opener for Nikki Glaser), Michael Salles Holtzman (Annoyance Theatre) and Jackson Viccora (Edinburgh Festival Fringe alum). Technical Direction from Rowan Duncan.
